GOLD AND SILVER.

Report from the Mint Bureau for the Calendar Year of 1892

The annual report issued by the Mint Bureau upon the production of gold and silver for the calendar year 1892 is ready for the press. It will be a volume of about six hundred pages, giving in detail the output for each State, Territory and mine in the United States for which it covers. The grand total shows a decrease in the production of gold bullion for the year amounting to some $2,000,000. The principal decrease was in California, where it amounted to $1,000,000, and in Dakota. There was a small increase in Colorado. There was a large percentage of increase in the mines in the Appalachian range. The mines of Georgia showed an increase fully of 100 per cent, those of North Carolina 50 per cent. The aggregate output from these mines is small but the increase is so marked that it is expected at an early date to be of considerable importance. The product of silver for the year showed an increase over the previous year of $2,000,000. The principal increase was from the output of Wood River District, in Idaho, and Lake Valley District in New Mexico. The mines of Nevada and Colorado pretty nearly held their own. For the first time in the history of the country, there was a shipment of silver-bearing ore from North Carolina. In the opinion of the officials of the Mint Bureau, based upon recent investigations of the mines that the Carolinas, Georgia and Virginia are attracting the attention of capitalists, who develop them to a degree unprecedented and it is believed profitably.

The Senator's Outlook for California.

The Sacramento Record-Union says "an examination of the reports of the press of the interior results in the conviction that in the aggregate the current year will prove one of bounty to the State, and of the liveliest encouragement to nearly all material interests in it. Fruit interests in some sections have suffered, but the general outcome will be gratifying. Agriculture in all its branches gives excellent promise. Irrigation is taking on practical form by the venturing of private capital more largely than ever in that enterprise. Stock of all kinds is in good condition. Immigration will not be heavy, but of a desirable character, while the steps taken to promote it promise a large influx for 1894. No complaints are heard from vineyardists, and the grape crop promises to be abundant. Money is easy, and the supply exceeds the demand. Mining promises well, without, however, indicating any "boom." Railroad building is being prosecuted in the southern and northern extremes of the State. No complaints are made of tramps, and apparently there is labor for all who sincerely desire it. There is not so much building going on or promised as was anticipated, and there is nothing just now to indicate great activity in lumber markets, but a good trade is anticipated somewhat later."

The Albany Evening Journal, in the course of an article on the overcrowding of the legal profession, presents some figures which are fairly startling. It affirms that there are 10,000 lawyers in the State of New York alone, while in all Great Britain and Ireland, with a population of nearly 37,000,000 there are only about 22,000 lawyers. In the United States, with a population in round numbers of 50,000,000, there are 65,000 lawyers, and the number steadily increases every year. To sum up, there is one lawyer to every 3,000 people in Great Britain, to every 800 in the United States.

Payments on account of pensions the present month are expected by the officers of the Pension Bureau to reach $5,000,000. The last month they amounted to little over $4,000,000 and fell slightly short of the latter sum in March.

John Sherman says he will not resign his seat in the Senate to run for Governor of Ohio, adding that whatever might be the danger this year, he had no doubt at all that the Republicans would carry Ohio in 1894.

Hon. Phil. Thompson, who killed Davis for degrading his wife, has been acquitted.

Some people will find out after awhile that they left the Comstock too quick.

J. Proctor Knott has been nominated for Governor by the Kentucky Democrats.

A Chicago girl could not be happy without marrying Sam Lee, a Celestial.

CROP PROSPECTS.

Reports from the Grain Regions of the Western States.

The New York Tribune contains extensive reports of the condition and prospects of crops from the grain growing region of the West, from experienced and careful men, and says editorially: The returns, though they do not promise the reported unprecedented yield of 1892, are decidedly more favorable than those received early in the season. It will be found, too, by those who examine closely, that they point to a more favorable result than was promised by the May report of the Agricultural Bureau, which has just been published. Being of a later date by some days, they indicate that the fine growing weather which has generally prevailed in the wheat region, has caused a continuance of improvement in the condition which was noticed in the Bureau report. Serious harm was done to winter wheat in several States. There is no doubt that by the unfavorable winter weather, the yield in these States will be reduced, in spite of the recent improvement in the condition, but the good weather at this season has materially lowered the estimates of the injury sustained. According to the Agricultural Bureau, the condition on April 1st was only about 80, and it had risen May 1st to 83%. The reports now given indicate a further improvement, and warrant a higher estimate of the yield in several States. The latest information now obtainable points to a probable yield of about 420,000,000 or 430,000,000 bushels of wheat in 1893. The supposed yield in 1892 was 502,000,000 bushels, but of that quantity, it appears as much as 80,000,000 bushels still remain unsold. Exports from this time to the close of the crop year can hardly reduce this surplus so low that 420,000,000 will be found insufficient for the coming year.

EXTRADITION PROBLEM.

Reasons Why England Will Not Ask for the Extradition of Walsh and Sheridan.

There is reason to believe that after all that has been said on the subject, the officials at the State Department do not expect Great Britain will ask for the extradition of Walsh and Sheridan. It is understood the Gladstone Government has had its attention called to the situation, and comprehends its delicacy. With such a vast Irish-American population in the United States, it is shown how impossible it would be to conduct extradition proceedings without great excitement. Much commotion would be likely to ensue at any time when extradition might be raised, but especially so when the crime was regarded, to a greater or less extent, as of a political nature by a large number of people who sympathize with the accused in politics. It is understood that these considerations have been brought to the notice of the British authorities, who, it is said, appreciate the unadvisability on their own account of agitating the Irish element in the United States more than is necessary. All money used for the embarrassment of the British authorities is believed to come from this country, and there is no desire to stimulate interest in Irish affairs. General Duncan S. Walker, of counsel for Sheridan and Walsh, returned to Washington Wednesday morning from Lowell, where he has been conferring with Governor Butler. He says no demand has yet been made for the extradition of his clients. He also adds that they will not be surrendered if their extradition is demanded.

The Pope's Letter to the Irish Bishops.

The Pope, in his circular to Irish Bishops, says: "Whatever Parnell's object may be, his followers have often adopted a course openly against the rules of the Pope's letter to Cardinal McCabe, and while it is lawful for the Irish to seek redress for their grievances and strive for their rights, they should at the same time seek God's justice, and remember the wickedness of illegal means of furthering even a just cause. It is the duty of the clergy to curb this excited feelings of the people, and to urge justice and moderation. The clergy are not permitted to depart from these rules and join or permit movements inconsistent with them. Collections to relieve distress are permitted, but subscriptions to inflame popular passions are condemned. The clergy must hold aloof when it is plain that by such movements hatred and dissension are aroused, or distinguished persons insulted, and when crime and murders go uncensured, and when patriotism is measured by the amount subscribed for the people are thereby intimidated. Therefore, the Parnell fund is disapproved, and no clergyman should recommend subscriptions thereto or promote it. It is stated that Archbishop O'Connell, on his return to Ireland, will visit Cardinal McCabe, and the latter will come here to confer with the Pope as soon as health will permit him to undertake the journey."

THE COMING CAMPAIGN.

Two Senators Speak on the Campaign—The Tariff.

(S. F. Chronicle, 16th.)

Senator Warner Miller, who is at present in this city, was interviewed yesterday in regard to the Presidential race. "There is little," he said, "which I care to touch upon in that regard, my position as United States Senator making it an indelicate subject for me, since nearly all the prominent candidates are my colleagues on the floor of the Senate. There is also so little effort made yet in favor of any one individual that to express an opinion in regard to the matter is entirely too premature. The most prominent candidates, no doubt, are Edmunds, Harrison and Logan, with David Davis bringing up the rear, waiting for the endorsement of one of the two political parties, since on an independent platform and ticket he would have little or no chance of success. But as I said, it would be indelicate for me to speak on the subject, and as to the Democrats, I would not be likely to give them any hints, to give them the inside track. Tilden in the race? Undoubtedly, if his health permits; and I saw a paper in Washington before I left on my tour, stating that his health had so much improved that he had decided to re-enter public life. As to his chances, I don't know, I have not seen any papers since I left Washington, some six months ago, and am not posted on the political news, but I should think that they were not entirely unfavorable. The mistake which the Democratic party made in 1890 was not to renominate him—that is, if they honestly believed that he was elected. He was the most available candidate, as he had brought forth the only real issue on which the previous campaign was fought and the only real issue the party could stand on. This should have been done despite the protests of the malcontents of the party who clamored against his re-nomination. 'However, an election has intervened since the time and circumstances have altered entirely since then. I myself do not entertain that high feeling of reverence for him as a statesman that is shown him by his political adherents, for I think he is only a shrewd politician and never found him otherwise while serving under him in the New York State Legislature. Hancock I think has drifted outside of the line of possible candidates. I see no reason why, having been defeated once, he should be again made the standard-bearer of the party. A few inconsiderate words on the tariff prevented his election, and now that the tariff will be the issue of the day, I cannot well see how he could be renominated. McDonald is a very strong man in the West, but I doubt the wisdom of nominating him, owing to the trouble between him and ex-Governor Hendricks, which would tend to disrupt the State and make it go Republican. "Though the Democrats affect to believe their chance of success as certain, I differ from them in this. The election of last fall cannot be taken as a criterion in national politics, and the tariff, which, as I said, will undoubtedly be the main issue, is apt to contravene their calculations. Every one who knows anything about the politics of New York knows that she is apt to give as large a majority the other way as she gave the Democratic ticket, last fall. It is the manufacturing interests which decide the elections, and I shall be much surprised if the tariff issue will not play an important role in the result. I do not by any means consider the result as a foregone conclusion; on the contrary, it all rests on the next session of Congress and its acts, and until that is ended all opinions as to the chances of the various candidates are but guesswork at the best."

Senator Jones, who is also at the Palace Hotel, held nearly the same views, except that his category of candidates on the Republican side embraced, besides those mentioned by Senator Miller, the names of Sherman, Windom, Blaine, Allison and Conger. Blaine, he said, was not yet showing his hand, but there was but little doubt that he had actively entered the race. "The question of the tariff," he said, "will determine the result of the election beyond doubt, for it is a question in which all are interested and more or less affected by. The reduction in the tariff at the last session of Congress has already reduced hundreds to penury. Where is the use of restricting Chinese immigration if their wares are to be allowed to enter duty free and our artisans are thrown in direct competition with Chinese workmen at home, who, we all know, can work there much cheaper than they can in this country? The bad result is thus only increased; better reopen the doors to them than to let their goods enter duty free. And what is true of the Chinese is true of the other nations. A Swiss will work better and more cheerfully at home, in sight of his snow-capped mountains, than in a foreign land; a Frenchman works better in his own land, with his poor wine at a few centimes a bottle, and so it goes all over the world. The artisans and workmen, not to speak of the manufacturers, will therefore be placed face to face with penury and starvation on the one side and their usual comforts and conveniences of life on the other, and as they hold the balance of power in this country, I think the election is not, as the Democrats seem to think, a foregone conclusion. The people of the country too, I think, appreciate the benefit of manufactures. Where manufacture sets its foot, there prosperity follows. A poor soil in a district studded with manufactories is of far more value to the owner than the wheat farming land removed from towns and cities. We are all creatures of comfort, and if we do not have it near at hand, we look for it elsewhere. If voting the one ticket means the increase of industries and the other their destruction, the predominance of the former is well assured. The tariff will be the solution of the Presidential problem."

Dr. Bergman considers the condition of Senator Marker as critical in the extreme, but still has hopes of his recovery; he says that had the Senator submitted to amputation he would have been well by this time. Drs. Benson and Bergman have the case.

The Carson Index says: Sam Wagner, one of Nevada's earliest citizens, is quite ill, and his recovery doubtful. Sam is over 80 years old and he seems to be giving way to the ravages of time upon his constitution. He is very glad to see his old friends, provided they do not fatigue him too much. We hope for better days for the old gentleman.

Greenaway Social.

The "Kate Greenaway" social tonight, of the Methodist folks, promises to be a very popular affair. But at they want it understood that it is not to be confined to that denomination, for they extend a cordial invitation to all to participate and make the affair as pleasant and as sociable as possible. The young ladies that are going to take lunch baskets hope the young gentlemen of Reno will avail themselves of their opportunity and privilege, for the old married men are putting up a job to monopolize all the pretty young ladies, and the married ladies have their eyes on all the young gentlemen. There will be an interesting musical programme, after which the lunch baskets will be auctioned off to the highest bidder. In connection with the lunch baskets the ladies will provide cake and coffee. There will be strawberries and ice cream to supply all demand at 25 cents a dish. The evening's entertainment will conclude with an old fashioned spelling match, Judge Webster and Haworth choosing sides. Elmer McArthur will give out the words, with Webster's speller as authority. An admittance fee of ten cents will be charged at the door. All are welcome this evening at the Pavilion.

Decoration Day.

The committee appointed to select Orator, Poet, Reader and Chaplain for Memorial Day announce Bishop Whitaker as Orator, T. F. Laycock Poet, Mrs. I. B. Marshall as Reader and Rev. E. B. Hatch as Chaplain. Now if Judge Boardman, Dr. Dawson or W. R. Jewey was President at of the Day the people of Reno would be perfectly happy.

PRE-HISTORIC GIANTS.

Opinion of that Distinguished Scientist, the Duke of Argyll, Concerning the Carson Quarry Footprints.

In the London Nature of April 19 appears the following:

I have been surprised to see in the English scientific journals no notice taken of the very remarkable discovery reported from the California Academy of Sciences in a paper communicated to that body by Charles Drayton Gibbs, C. E., on the discovery of a great number of (apparently) human footprints of a gigantic size in the State of Nevada. It appears that in building the State Prison, near Carson City, the capital of that State, there was occasion to cut into a rock composed of alternate layers of sandstone and clay. On several of the clay floors exposed in this operation great numbers of tracks of all sorts of animals have been exposed. These tracks include footprints of the mammoth or of some animal like, of some smaller quadrupeds, apparently canine and feline, and of numerous birds. Associated with these are repeated tracks of footprints, which all who have seen are agreed can be the footprints of no other animal than man, and the engravings and photographs which accompany the paper leave no doubt in the mind of any one who sees them. The most remarkable circumstance characterizing them is their great size. In one case there are thirteen footprints measuring 19 inches in length, by 8 inches wide at the ball and 6 inches at the heel. In another case the footprints are 21 inches long by 7 inches wide. There are others of a smaller size, possibly those of women. One track has fourteen footprints 18 inches long. The distance between the footprints constituting a "step" varies from 3 feet 3 inches to 2 feet 3 inches and 2 feet 8 inches, whilst the distance between the consecutive prints of the same foot constituting a "pace" varies from 6 feet 6 inches to 4 feet 6 inches. In none of the footprints of the deposit are the toes or claws of animals marked. As regards the beasts, this is probably due to the slushy state of the mud at the time the tracks were made. But in the case of the human footprints, it is probably due to the use of some kind of shoes or moccasins.

I need not say that so far as the geological horizon is concerned, this discovery does not carry the existence of man beyond the Quaternary Mammoth, with which it has long been pretty clear that he was associated in prehistoric times. Nevertheless, it is, if confirmed, a highly remarkable discovery, especially as connected with the various intimations so concisely made in the Jewish Scriptures—"And there were giants in those days." "Hitherto, so far as known, the remains of prehistoric man, so far as hitherto discovered, have not revealed anything abnormal in point of size. It is just possible that the slippery and yielding nature of the muddy lacustrine shore, on which the tracks were made, may have partly occasioned the apparent size. But the photographs and engravings exhibit them as very sharp and "clear cut." Professional Indian trackers have been employed to examine the tracks, and some of them seem to have the smallest doubt as to the footprints being human.

ANEXILL.

P. S.—The paper read before the California Academy of Sciences was sent to me by my son, the Governor General of Canada, a few weeks ago.

The Enterprise comments as follows:

Thus we see the great interest that is being taken in this wonderful and wonderfully preserved bit of ground abroad. Here appears accidentally to have been found a stratum of ground upon which in prehistoric days man and the great birds and animals that then existed left their tracks side by side.

Although search might be made all the world over, in no other place would probably be found such striking indications of life on the face of the earth ages and ages ago.

The United States Government should, in the interest of science, make an appropriation for the stripping of a large area of this ground, under the superintendence of a competent scientist. The amount required would not be large, as the convict could be used in doing the work.

The beauty of the work here is that there is no uncertainty about it. The tracks of the men and animals can be taken and followed step by step. All there is to be done is to remove the superincumbent strata of rock. The excavations here would prove of more interest to the scientific world than those now being carried on at Pompeii and Herculaneum.

A Strange Funeral.

The Carson Appeal of Wednesday morning says: Yesterday afternoon Frederick Burns was buried at the State Prison, having died of heart disease at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Some of his fellow-prisoners acted as pallbearers, and the guards walked alongside, with loaded rifles, escorting the pallbearers. It was a strange sight to see the convicts standing over the coffin of their late comrade, while they themselves were under surveillance. Rev. G. R. Davis read the burial service. Deceased was twenty-seven years of age, a native of New York, and sent to the State Prison for one year for a burglary committed in this city. He had a few months more to serve when death commuted his sentence.

The Proche Record of Saturday last, contains the annexed:

Hon. R. A. Riepe has been entertaining our citizens by the wonderful doings of the Legislature. He says that there can be found many more honest, upright and honorable men in the Nevada State Prison than most of the members in the Legislature. No person doubts his statement.

New Dances for Next Season.

The Chicago Tribune states that it is officially announced in one of the alleged society papers that a reform in dancing will be effected next year. It has already made its appearance in English fashionable circles and has met with some favor. The polka, the schottische and the waltz are to give place to the German ländler and polonaise, as danced at the German Court. A dance called the cournelle, has also been introduced at the English Court balls, and is expected to create a furore when it finds its way over here. This is the natural result of the galop and ridiculous, raquet that turned ballrooms topsy-turvy last year. I suppose a more wild and reckless hula-balloo of a dance might be invented than the raquet, but it is difficult to conceive it. Of all forms of dancing that is the most barbarous. The spectacle of wild-eyed maidens and fierce men tearing up and down a room all out of breath, dripping with perspiration, working like beavers, was one that excited a feeling of sympathy and pity. If a stately and respectable style of dance comes in again it might take away some of the fun, excitement, fatigue and immorality of the wilder dances, but it will substitute temper and grace. Both of them are now needed in the average ballroom.

GOVERNOR TRITLE.

A Comstocker in Arizona and New Mexico.

The Albuquerque Journal acknowledges the pleasure of a call from Governor Tritle, of Arizona, who was in that city on a brief business visit May 12. That paper says: Like everybody else, the Governor was surprised at the wonderful growth and prosperity of Albuquerque, and said it was hard to realize that such a city had been built up in the short period of two years. He went down to Isleta by special train in the afternoon, to look at the Indian village, and in the evening took the train for the west. Governor Tritle is accorded the honor by the people of Arizona of being the best Governor the Territory ever had. We knew him nearly thirty years ago, and can bear witness to the fact that he is a good man as well as a good officer. At the time referred to he was in a banking house and land agency in company with Colonel Nutt, now President of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway Company, and says he little dreamed that his partner would now be at the head of one of the greatest railways in the United States, and he Governor of one of the best Territories. But he thinks the Colonel has a little the start of him at present—especially in the matter of salary.

ROAST VEAL STUFFED.—To eight ounces of bruised crumbs of bread add four ounces of chopped suet, marjoram, or summer savory, all chopped fine; two eggs, salt and pepper to season; mix all these ingredients into a firm, compact kind of paste, and use this stuffing to fill pockets which you will cut with a knife in different parts of the piece of veal, taking care to close them with cotton yarn. A piece of veal weighing eight pounds would require about three hours to cook it through.

ORANGE CAKE.—Two eggs, one cup of sugar, one-half cup of butter, two cups of flour, one-half cup of sweet milk, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder sifted with the flour. Rub the butter and sugar to a cream, add the eggs, well beaten, then the milk and flour. Bake in jelly-tins. Squeeze juice from a large orange, add to it the grated rind, make stiff with powdered sugar and stir in the white of an egg. Spread between the layers.

"IN A DECLINE."

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Dear Sir:—Last fall my daughter was in a decline and everybody thought she was going into the consumption. I got her a bottle of your "Favorite Prescription," and it cured her. Mrs. MARY HINSON, Montrose, Kan.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it.
